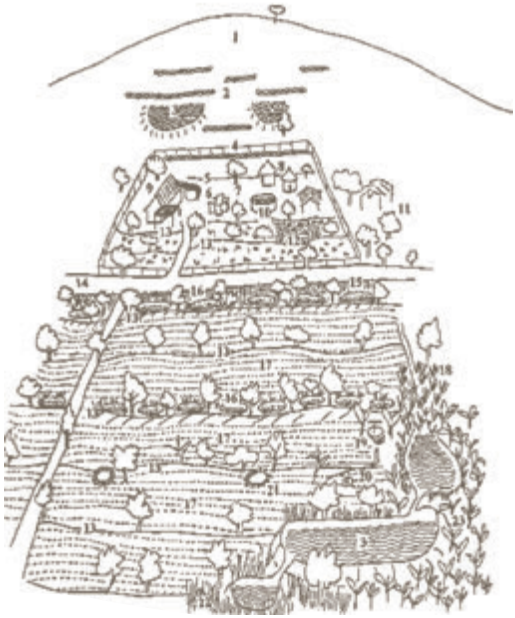
PRU

PRU takes its name from Phuket's indigenous lore: it is a place where the wild forest rushes out to meet the sea. At this confluence of land and water, the earth is verdant and nourishing, enlivening the local cuisine and stirring epicurean ambitions with newfound creativity.

Inspired by Phuket's legacy as a culinary crossroads and the island's unique terroir, PRU is pursuing our own culinary ambition -- to elevate farm-to-table cooking to uncharted heights. We aspire to plant our own food, raise our own meats and understand the ecosystem we belong to. We use all that nature and our farm provides and devise dishes that are at once poetic and down-to-earth.



Pru Jampa farm sits in a beautiful pocket of northeastern Phuket, where the sea air mingles with the musky sweet scent of freshly tilled soil. A generous piece of earth with lakes, woods and rolling hillsides, Pru Jampa is a culinary garden where we cultivate vegetables, herbs and flowers for use in our kitchen.

We farm organically and sustainably, borrowing from the island's traditional practices and pairing it with a bit of modern know-how. Most of Pru Jampa's 600 rai farmstead remains wild, ideal for foraging and exploring. It is here, on these primitive trails, that we let our imagination run wild and dream up stories to tell through our food.

It is our pleasure to offer you the selection of wines on the following pages.

You will see what we believe is a well-rounded selection of wines from both hemispheres which includes well-known favorites as well as some new kids on the block from interesting boutique wineries.

We also feel that we must point out that wines in Thailand incur a number of taxes as they are treated by the Thai government as a luxury item. The combination of compounding taxes results in a tax of approximately 430% on all imported wines, and even locally produced wines, of which the quality is improving, attract a disproportionately high tax.

Please do let us know if we can make a recommendation and we look forward to perhaps sharing a glass or two with you.

With kind regards,

PRU Team
